CHAPTER I
INTRODUCTION

1.1 Reason for Choosing the Title

Tax is money that has to be paid to a government for public purposes. There are two kinds of tax, Central Tax and Regional Tax. According to constitution number 34 year 2000 regional tax is source of regional income. Regional tax is the fundamentally based on the principle of contribution and benefit, where residents pay in return for administrative services provided by the regional governments. The biggest income regional tax is from vehicle tax (PKB).

Regional Income Office is a formal institution which is consistent with the tax payment in Central Java. Regional Income Office serves online and local payment. Online payment is a way to pay for the tax from tax payer to official tax through many methods. It can be done in a bank. Local payment is a way to pay for the tax from tax payer to official tax with one procedure. It can be done in a chosen office.

On-line and local payments are the alternatives for the tax payer, to pay for the tax. On-line payment is one of the ways to pay a tax, which is often chosen by the tax payer. The latter is preferably chosen because it is much easier and practical.
