ABSTRACT

This research discusses about the effect of company's measurement, profitability, public stock ownership, board of commissioner, leverage and media disclosure toward corporate social responsibility. The disclosure of corporate social responsibility in relation to themes of environment, energy, health and safety, other themes on labor, products, society involvement and public theme. The inconsistent result becomes the main reason of this research. Besides that, media disclosure was chosen because this variable is rarely used to analyze the CSR factors.

The data of this research were gained from 63 samples by using purposive sample which were taken from a company grouped at LQ-45 index through 2012 – 2014. Meanwhile, the technique of the data analysis uses multiple linier analysis.

The result of this research shows that company measurement, profitability, public stock ownership, board of commissioner and media disclosure are not influenced toward the CSR disclosure, while leverage affects the CSR disclosure.

Keyword : size, profitability, ownership, commissioners, leverage, media and CSR.
